(U) Selected Editorials from Today's Iranian Papers (OSC IAP2009070295002):

Jomhuri-ye Eslami (hard-liner): &Following the remarks of the spokesman of the Guardian Council confirming the result of the election, there is no room for more questions and ambiguity and the Judiciary should seriously deal with question makers.8

Javan (conservative): &Crisis and clashes that have taken place in the country since the tenth presidential elections were predetermined and planned by America and its alliances like Britain, several months before the elections. The aim was to carry out a soft revolution in the Islamic Republic.8

Hemayat (conservative): &America's psychological-propaganda organizations which have been expanding daily, have always acted as one of this country's main arms in war and peace...Hollywood holds a significant status and it is under the rule of international Zionism8

Resalat (conservative): &American intrusion in Iran's domestic affairs, and particularly the hostile remarks of Barack Obama regarding the presidential election in Iran, prove that Americans are still thinking about toppling the system in the country and there is no difference in strategies of the Republicans or the Democrats as far as Iran is concerned.8

Siyasat-e Ruz (conservative): &What is being pursued by the West, to return its dominance over regions of the world such as Iran, some Arab countries and even Latin American countries, is a creation of colored revolutions.8

Mardom Salari (moderate): &Bani Sadr was a person who cut off from people and stood against the goals of the Revolution which were accepted by the people. Mr. Mousavi is not like him and there is no similarity between him and Bani Sadr and the analogy is rather a joke.8

2:30 AM in Iran:

(U) Bonyad to Compensate Families of Victims,: Fars News reports that Iran,s Martyrs Foundation (Bonyad Shahid va Isaagaraan) will compensate &families of the innocent victims of Tehran,s post-election riots.8 The U.S. Treasury Department designated the group a sponsor of terrorist activities in July 2007, saying that the foundation channels financial support from Iran to several terrorist organizations, including Hezbollah, Hamas and Palestinian Islamic Jihad. Iran's Martyrs Foundation reportedly supports families of those martyred or maimed in the Iraq-Iran war. Bonyads are controversial charitable trusts/foundations that dominate Iran,s non-petroleum economy, controlling an estimated 30% of Iran,s GDP. Several bonyads are run by Khamenei loyalists and funded directly by the state. As such, they are often exempt from official oversight, taxes and customs) thereby facilitating virtual monopolies in import and distribution activities inside Iran.

(U) IRGC Commander: Non-Military Basij Can Enter Political Discussions,: According to IRNA, on sidelines of a Basij Forces Cooperation conference, Brigadier-General Ali Jafari said &Basij forces differs from the military forces; we should not count basij forces as military forces, so they can enter political discussion and have an active role in that field. Jafari referred to the Supreme Leader,s notification on separating the military basij forces and non-military basij forces, with the aim of expanding basij activities in different fields. &The corps has planned an expanded program in scientific, cultural, political and social fields. The most significant point is to develop the soft power in the military. It is no linked to military activities and the major responsibility of the basij concerns non-military issues.8

(U) Report: Crisis Response Hints At Early Stages Of Iranian Power Struggle,: &Over the past month, Iran has experienced some of its worst unrest since the founding of the Islamic Republic three decades ago. The focus has been on who should be the next president. But in the not too distant future, many observers are convinced that Iran's political establishment will face a far greater crisis that revolves around who will succeed ailing Supreme Leader Ali Khamenei.8

(U) Iran Unrest Shifts Power Dynamics, Reformists Must Rethink Strategy: &But the recent protests attracted hundreds of thousands into Iran's streets, resulting in at least 17 deaths and many more injuries. The hard-liners have tightened their grip, leaving the reformists to decide whether they should keep playing the old game or whether the rules have changed so much that the game no longer exists.8

(U) Report: Controversy Over Ballots Used in Guardian Council Recount: There is growing commentary and criticism of photographs released by Iranian authorities of ballots included in the Guardian Council,s recount on

STATE 00069790 004.2 OF 004

Monday. Roozonline, and opposition candidate Mohsen Rezai, highlight two points: 1) The name &Ahmadinejad8 appears to have been written on many of the ballots in exactly the same handwriting; 2) The ballots don,t appear to have been folded. Photographs from Election Day seem to bear out that Iranian voters * and candidates * had to fold their ballots to fit them into ballot boxes.
